As you can see, the El Capitolio has not changed much over the years. The building is still in use today, and it is a popular tourist destination.

The Malecón

The Malecón is a long seawall that stretches along the coast of Havana. The Malecón is a popular place for people to go for a walk, to fish, or to simply relax and enjoy the view. It is also a popular tourist destination.

The Malecón has changed somewhat over the years. The seawall has been extended, and there are now more buildings along the coast. However, the Malecón is still a popular place for people to go for a walk, to fish, or to simply relax and enjoy the view.

The countryside

The Cuban countryside is home to some of the most beautiful scenery in the world. The rolling hills, the lush vegetation, and the crystal-clear waters are all breathtaking. The countryside is also home to a number of small villages and towns, where people live a traditional way of life.

The Cuban countryside has changed somewhat over the years. There are now more roads and buildings in the countryside, and the population has increased. However, the countryside is still a beautiful place to visit, and it is home to a number of traditional villages and towns.

The people

The Cuban people are some of the most friendly and welcoming people in the world. They are proud of their country and their culture, and they are always willing to share their stories with visitors. The Cuban people are also very resilient, and they have overcome many challenges over the years.

The Cuban people have changed somewhat over the years. They are now more educated and more prosperous than they were in the past. However, the Cuban people are still the same friendly and welcoming people that they have always been.

Cuba is a country that has undergone many changes over the years. However, the country's spirit has remained the same. The Cuban people are still friendly and welcoming, the countryside is still beautiful, and the culture is still vibrant. Cuba is a country that is worth visiting, and it is a country that will continue to change and grow in the years to come.
