In this article, we'll take you on a journey through some of the top walks in Tasmania, as recommended by renowned British actor, comedian and broadcaster Alexander Armstrong. From the iconic Cradle Mountain to the pristine shores of Wineglass Bay, these walks offer a diverse range of experiences that will leave you breathless.

Cradle Mountain-Lake St Clair National Park

No trip to Tasmania would be complete without a visit to Cradle Mountain-Lake St Clair National Park. This World Heritage-listed area is home to some of the state's most iconic walks, including the Overland Track and the Cradle Mountain Summit Walk.

The Overland Track is a six-day, 65-kilometer hike that takes you through the heart of the park. Along the way, you'll pass by stunning lakes, towering mountains and lush rainforests. The Cradle Mountain Summit Walk is a shorter, but equally rewarding, hike that takes you to the summit of Cradle Mountain, one of Tasmania's most famous landmarks.

Dove Lake Circuit

The Dove Lake Circuit is a relatively easy walk that takes you around the beautiful Dove Lake, located in the heart of Cradle Mountain-Lake St Clair National Park. The walk is just over 6 kilometers long and takes about 2-3 hours to complete. Along the way, you'll have stunning views of Cradle Mountain and the surrounding peaks.

Wineglass Bay

Wineglass Bay is one of the most photographed beaches in the world, and for good reason. This stunning beach is located in Freycinet National Park, on the east coast of Tasmania. The walk to Wineglass Bay is a challenging one, but it's worth it for the breathtaking views.

The walk to Wineglass Bay is about 11 kilometers long and takes about 4-5 hours to complete. The trail is mostly uphill, but the views from the top are simply stunning. Once you reach Wineglass Bay, you can relax on the beach, take a swim or simply enjoy the scenery.

Bay of Fires

The Bay of Fires is a stunning stretch of coastline located on the east coast of Tasmania. The bay is known for its white sand beaches, sparkling turquoise waters and orange lichen-covered rocks.

There are a number of walks that you can do in the Bay of Fires, ranging from short strolls to multi-day hikes. One of the most popular walks is the Bay of Fires Lodge Walk, which is a three-day, 43-kilometer hike that takes you along the coastline.

Maria Island

Maria Island is a small island located off the east coast of Tasmania. The island is home to a diverse range of wildlife, including kangaroos, wallabies, wombats and seals. There are a number of walks that you can do on Maria Island, ranging from short strolls to multi-day hikes.

One of the most popular walks is the Fossil Cliffs Walk, which is a 4-kilometer loop walk that takes you past some of the island's most impressive fossil cliffs. The walk is relatively easy and takes about 1-2 hours to complete.

Freycinet National Park

Freycinet National Park is located on the east coast of Tasmania and is home to some of the state's most iconic landscapes. The park is known for its pink granite mountains, pristine beaches and crystal-clear waters.

There are a number of walks that you can do in Freycinet National Park, ranging from short strolls to multi-day hikes. One of the most popular walks is the Wineglass Bay Lookout Walk, which is a 1.5-kilometer loop walk that takes you to a lookout with stunning views of Wineglass Bay.

Three Capes Track

The Three Capes Track is a challenging four-day, 48-kilometer hike that takes you along the coastline of the Tasman Peninsula, located in the south-east of Tasmania. The track is known for its stunning scenery, which includes towering sea cliffs, pristine beaches and lush forests.

The Three Capes Track is a popular hike, so it's important to book your accommodation in advance. The track is also closed during the winter months, so be sure to check the website before you go.

Lake St Clair National Park

Lake St Clair National Park is located in the south-west of Tasmania and is home to some of the state's most beautiful lakes and mountains. The park is a popular destination for hiking, camping and fishing.

There are a number of walks that you can do in Lake St Clair National Park, ranging from short strolls to multi-day hikes. One of the most popular walks is the Lake St Clair Circuit, which is a 65-kilometer loop walk that takes you around the lake.

These are just a few of the top walks that you can do in Tasmania. With its diverse range of landscapes, there's a walk to suit everyone.

So what are you waiting for? Start planning your trip today and experience the natural beauty of Tasmania for yourself.
